LOWESTOFT PORCELAIN.

This collection was started by the present owner's father in the year 1887, and was to a great extent completed in the subsequent two or three years. Its foundations were laid in 1887 at the sale of the effects of Charles John Mann Curtis, a son of Thomas Curtis, a painter at the Lowestoft China Manufactory. The collection was subsequently greatly developed two years later at the Reeve sale in May, 1889. A few important pieces with inscriptions from the well-known collection of William Booth were added in 1906.

To most present-day collectors the inscribed and dated specimens in this collection have so far been known only through the medium of old standard works, such as Jewitt, Chaffers and others. In two or three cases, e.g. the Holt Trifle and the Teasel Tablet, they have hitherto been unrecorded.

- 10 Four Specimen Cups and Saucers, each with a different and rare pattern, painted in enamel colours; and three Cream Jugs and two Cream Boats with enamel decoration 13

- 11 A TEA POT AND COVER of typical form, painted with flowers, cornucopia and elaborate festoon and scale borders in enamel colours, by Thomas Curtis, 5½ in.

 Purchased at the sale of Mr. Charles John Mann Curtis (son of Thomas Curtis, the well-known painter at the Lowestoft Factory), lot 188, 21st September, 1887, Lowestoft.

- 12 A BOWL or Sugar Basin, painted with Redgrave "Doll's House" pattern, 5⅞ in.; five Cups and four Saucers with rare red decoration; three other Cups and Saucers; and an odd Saucer with enamel coloured decoration 17

- 13 A rare small Vase, of pear shape, with garlic mouth, pencilled in black and gold, with flower sprays and an elaborate diaper and festoon border round the mouth, 4½ in. (shape cf. Spelman, pl. 60, fig. 4); and a Mug with "famille-rose" decoration, 2⅞ in. (lot 195 in the Curtis sale, 21st September, 1887) 2

- 14 An interesting Lowestoft Tea Cup, painted with flowers within barbed medallions and diaper borders; a Chinese Cup with the same pattern; another Lowestoft Cup, painted with flower sprays in "famille-rose" enamels; and two Chinese Cups and three Saucers with the same decoration (part of lot 186 in the Curtis sale, 1887) 8
- 15 A creamware pottery Mug, decorated in colours with a portrait of Philip Strowger of Normanston, carrying a rake, pitchfork and flask, in the background Burg Church and Marshes, $3\frac{1}{8}$ in., faulty; a Lowestoft Tea Cup with "famille-rose" decoration; and two Chinese Tea Cups and three Saucers, with the same design (all from the Curtis sale, 1887) 7
- 16 A bell-shaped Mug, painted in underglaze blue with flower sprays and butterflies, a lambrequin border inside the rim, painter's number 5, $3\frac{1}{2}$ in.; a Cream Jug; a Cream Boat; two Cups and three Saucers; and nine leaf Pickle Trays, all painted in underglaze blue (cf. Spelman, pl. 65, fig. 3) 17
- 17 A blue and white Toy Tea Pot, painted with Chinese pagodas and river scenes, $3\frac{3}{4}$ in.; and a Sugar Basin, painted with houses and river scenes, $4\frac{7}{8}$ in. (Tea Pot cf. Spelman, pl. 62, fig. 4) 3
- 18 A small Coffee Pot, with scroll spout and handle, painted in underglaze blue with a Chinese lady holding a sunshade, $6\frac{3}{4}$ in.; a bell-shaped Mug, faulty, $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.; and a typical Lowestoft Feeding Cup with watering can spout, 3 in., painter's numeral 5 (cf. Spelman, pl. 61, fig. 1) 3
- 19 A pair of interesting Delft Plates, decorated by Thomas Curtis, with a typical Lowestoft design of flower sprays and scale borders, $8\frac{3}{4}$ in. (lot 201 in the Curtis sale, 1887) 2
-  Perhaps the type of Plate that was responsible for the belief that there was a Delft manufactory in Lowestoft.
- 20 A pretty Lowestoft cylindrical Mug with turquoise rim, painted with scattered sprigs and bouquets of flowers in brilliant colours, about 1795, $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.
-  From the Reeve collection sale, 1889, lot 166. Mr. Reeve inherited the collection of his sister Lady Smith, widow of Sir James Edward Smith, a Lowestoft magnate.
- 21 A pair of Newcastle creamware small Plates, painted with brown edge rims and inscribed "A Trifle from Cromer," perhaps by Absolon at Yarmouth, impressed mark "St. Anthony's"; and a pair of Child's Mugs and Plates, inscribed "Averill Sibel" within floral sprays and wreaths, perhaps Leeds (from the Curtis sale in 1887, lots 190 and 191, and previously in Mrs. Sibel's collection) 6

 For St. Anthony's Potteries see Francis Buckley, Archæologia Aeliana, series 4, vol. 4.

- 22 THE FAMOUS CURTIS TEA SERVICE, painted by Thomas Curtis, with sprays and cornucopiæ of flowers in colours within a red and gilt border, comprising : a Tea Pot, Cover and Stand, a Cream Jug and Cover, a Sugar Basin, Cover and Stand, a Tea Poy and Cover, a Spoon Tray, two Bread and Butter Plates, twelve Cups, and ten Saucers 35

 This Tea Service, painted in 1775, was intended for a wedding present for his son James; lot 208 in the Curtis sale, is there described as "an unique and complete Tea Service of fine translucent quality." See also Chaffers, 1912, 13th edition, p. 851.

- 23 A MINIATURE GARNITURE, of four vases, two with covers, and a pair of beakers, all painted with flower sprays in enamel colours, decorative pink scale, festoon and butterfly borders round the rims, $4\frac{1}{4}$ in. to 6 in.

 A very decorative and complete set. Similar examples may be seen in the Norwich Museum, in the Caldwell, Colman and other private collections.

RARE INSCRIBED AND DATED SPECIMENS.

- 24 A TEA CUP AND SAUCER, fluted, with wavy gilt rims, decorated with festoons of grape and vine pattern in gold and red, enclosing in the centre within a golden heart, the inscription "M. and E. Calder, Norwich, 1776" (part of the well-known Wedding Service, cf. Spelman, colour plate 80, fig. 3)

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 25 A BARREL-SHAPE MUG, with rococo scroll handle, inscribed in front within a sepia wreath "A Trifle from LOWESTOFT," feathery sepia and blue borders round the shoulders and base, and cornflower sprigs between, 4 in. (type cf. Crisp catalogue, colour plate, p. 8)

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 26 A CYLINDRICAL MUG, inscribed within a puce husk and festoon cartouche "A Trifle from LOWESTOFT," flanked by flower sprays and with a red double line entwined floral border round the rim, $3\frac{1}{2}$ in. (lot 603 in the Reeve sale, 23rd May, 1889)

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 27 A RARE CYLINDRICAL MUG, inscribed within a feathery puce cartouche "A Trifle from HOLT," within pale blue and coloured entwined borders round the neck and base, c. 1795, $3\frac{1}{2}$ in.

 No other "Trifle from Holt" is recorded.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 28 TWO FINE MUGS of cylindrical shape, perhaps painted by Thomas Curtis, with a Chinese design of a vase and flowers under a pink scale border and inscribed in monogram with the initials "J.S.D." at the sides, pint-and-a-half size, $5\frac{1}{8}$ in., pint size, $4\frac{1}{2}$ in. (from the Reeve sale, 1889) 2

 Two very similar fine quality Mugs, bearing the initials "C.E." and "M.F." have recently been acquired for the Castle Museum, Norwich. Apparently in this series no half pint Mug was made.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 29 THE "GAMBLE" TRANSFER-PRINTED SPORTSMAN MUG of unusual bell shape, to accommodate the print, printed in underglaze blue with a dog putting up a quaint parrot-like partridge on the left, the sportsman in 18th Century costume with his gun over his shoulder, holding it by the barrel, inscribed in front with the initials "'J. & M. P. 1783," 6 in., with documents

 From the Booth and Reeve collections, lot 174, 22nd May, 1889. Illustrated in "The Proceedings of the Suffolk Institute of Archæology," vol. XI, part 3, pl. 5.

Noted in "Inscribed and Dated Lowestoft Porcelain," Transactions of the English Porcelain Circle, vol. 3, p. 19.

Tradition states that this print, which is the most ambitious transfer-print recorded, was supplied by Mr. Gamble, of Bungay. It was by no means the first effort as printing was in general use at Lowestoft before 1772.

At this date it is hazardous to conjecture for whom the Mug was made, but the initials would certainly fit those of Joseph and Margré Pennyfeather, noted on another piece.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 30 A VERY RARE BIRTH TABLET, painted in underglaze blue on one side with a small Chinese river scene, houses and trees, and on the other inscribed "JOHN TEASEL, BORN SEPTEMBER 22, 1787," $2\frac{3}{4}$ in.

 Hitherto unrecorded, the decoration on this tablet is by the same hand as that of the Sarah Mason tablet in the Crisp collection, illustrated p. 14.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 31 A TRIFLE FROM LOWESTOFT. A Leeds or Staffordshire creamware Mug of small cylindrical shape, bought in the white and decorated in brick-red with a local scene within a medallion with a label below inscribed "A Trifle from LOWESTOFT," $3\frac{5}{8}$ in., a charming piece

 A glance at the legend on the label in comparison with similar pieces in this collection leaves no doubt that this is Lowestoft decoration, perhaps by Allen.

- 32 JAMES POSTONS, NORWICH, 1771. A bell-shape Mug with cell diaper border in underglaze blue round the rim, flower sprays and butterflies round the sides and in front within a light rococo cartouche, inscribed "James Postons, Norwich, 1771," 5 in.

 From the William Booth collection.

Illustrated in "The Proceedings of the Suffolk Institute of Archæology," vol. XI, part 3, pl. 5.

Noted in "The Transactions of the English Porcelain Circle," vol. III, p. 18.

Probably by the same painter (no. 5) as the Coffee Pot inscribed and dated as above in the Colman collection.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 33 A TRIFLE FROM LOWESTOFT. An Inkstand painted in colours with festoons of flowers on the top and sides, perforated with four holes for pens and inscribed "A Trifle from LOWESTOFT," $2\frac{7}{8}$ in. (shape cf. Crisp colour plate, p. 9)

 From the Reeve collection, lot 104, 22nd May, 1889.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 34 THE FAMOUS CURTIS MUG, of bell shape, with an underglaze blue cell diaper border round the exterior of the rim, flower sprays at the sides, and in front inscribed within a light rococo cartouche "James & Mary Curtis, Lowestoft, 1771," $4\frac{1}{2}$ in.

 Mentioned by Chaffers, 13th edition, p. 851; also by Church in "English Porcelain."

Illustrated by Jewitt, vol. I, p. 445, fig. 838.

Illustrated by Hayden, in "Chats on English China."

Noted in "The Transactions of the English Porcelain Circle," vol. III, p. 17.

Given by Thomas Curtis to his father and mother and sold with the effects of his son, Charles John Mann Curtis, lot 245, 21st September, 1887.

In the collection of Lord Fisher, there is a charming Mug with a verse, inscribed "Mary Curtis, 1792."

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 35 ONLEY HARVEY, 1798. A very interesting Beaker or Tumbler, painted in underglaze blue with a border inside the rim, scattered sprigs in blue round the body and in front within a husk draped panel inscribed as above, $4\frac{1}{8}$ in.

 From the William Booth and Reeve collections, lot 175, sale 1889.

Exhibited on loan at Norwich Museum, 1902.

Illustrated in "The Proceedings of the Suffolk Institute of Archæology," vol. XI, part 3.

Mentioned by Chaffers, 13th edition, p. 997, and in "The Transactions of the English Porcelain Circle," vol. III, p. 22, where it is erroneously described as being in colours. In this connection it is interesting to note that the whole of the style and technique of the decoration is that of the enamelled wares of the closing years of the Factory.

In 1822 Mr. Onley Harvey assumed the name of Savill Onley, see the letter accompanying the lot.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 36 J. BAYFIELD, 1778. A Jug, painted in underglaze blue with a lattice diaper border round the rim, flower sprays at the sides and inscribed in front as above within a rococo cartouche, 7 in.

 From the William Booth and Reeve collections, lot 173, 22/5/89.

Mentioned by Chaffers, 13th edition, p. 997, and noted in "The Transactions of the English Porcelain Circle," vol. III, p. 25.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 37 A RARE BLUE AND WHITE TOY TEA POT, painted on one side within a rococo panel with the usual legend "A Trifle from LOWESTOFT," and on the reverse with flower sprays, $3\frac{7}{8}$ in., brilliant condition

 From the Curtis collection, 1887 (lot 228).
Small Tea Pots so inscribed are excessively rare.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

- 38 WILLM. FELTUM, SHOTTISHAM, 1773, inscribed in underglaze blue within a thin rococo cartouche flanked by flower sprays, a lattice diaper border inside the rim, $4\frac{1}{2}$ in., painter's number 5, brilliant condition

 From the Reeve collection (lot 176). Is one of a set of three. The pint-and-a-half size is in the collection of Lord Fisher. Noted in "The Transactions of the English Porcelain Circle," vol. III, p. 17.

[See ILLUSTRATION.]

The Property of D. D. Stathatos, Esq.

- 179 A HIGHLY IMPORTANT BUST, by Jean-Antoine Houdon (1741-1828), of Marie-Adélaïde-Clotilde-Xavière de France, signed and dated 1774

In white marble, of life size; her head slightly at an angle, with hair tied loosely by a ribbon and locks falling gracefully over the neck; the face beautifully modelled, and with the semblance of a smile; the breast with lace corsage over which a cloak is draped, the right shoulder bare, height 33 in. (84 cm.)

 Exhibited at the Exhibition of French Art, Burlington House, 1932, No. 604 in the catalogue.

This notable work of Houdon's best period was made to the order of the French Royal family and later was given to one of the equerries at Court, in whose family it remained until it was sold about twenty-five years ago. As far as is known no replica is in existence, though there is in the Versailles Museum a different bust of the same subject, neither signed nor dated, and only attributed to Houdon.

The bust of Marie-Adélaïde's sister Victoire, by Houdon, occupies a prominent place in the Wallace collection, where also may be seen the celebrated Inkstand of Sèvres porcelain modelled by Duplessis and believed to have been given by Louis XV to Marie-Adélaïde.

Marie-Adélaïde-Clotilde-Xavière de France was a daughter of the Dauphin, son of Louis XV, and therefore sister of Louis XVI and Charles X. She was born in 1759 and married in 1775 Charles Emmanuel, Prince of Piedmont, afterwards King of Sardinia. She died in 1802 and was beatified by Pope Pius VII in 1808.
